THE time for the opening of the great Brooklyn bridge has been fixed for May 24th.

THE recent cold and unseasonable weather was brought about by the Democratic victories last Fall.

"COFFEE POT WALLACE" denies the story about his connection with "bogus naturalization papers."

IF THE Democrats will not meet in convention this year the circus will have undisputed possession of the field.

THE semi-centennial of Iowa will be celebrated at Burlington June 1. Invitations will be extended to all old settlers' societies.

THE proposed public park in Montana will have an area of 12,000 square miles—nearly ten times that of the whole of Rhode Island.

DEMOCRATIC ticket for 1884 : President, Samuel J. Tilden, of New York; Vice President, John M. Palmer, of Illinois. Platform : We believe in the resurrection of the body.

THERE is good reason to believe that the vigorous efforts now in progress in New York to reunite the two adverse wings of the Republican party of that State will ultimately be successful.

GENERAL DIAZ, ex-President of Mexico, is now on his return home. He travels by rail via St. Louis and the southern railroads through Texas to New Orleans, where he will take steamer for Vera Cruz.

JOHN BRIGHT estimates that since the beginning of the present century Great Britain has spent about $22,000,000,000 for war and only about $4,000,000,000 for civil government and improvements.

THE great storm which devasted a portion of Mississippi, and extended into other states, was one of the severest on record. The loss of life, which was heavy, added to its horrors. Owing to the excitement and confusion which has prevailed it has been almost impossible to arrive at the exact number lost, but some estimates put it at one hundred. A great many have been injured severely, and the suffering that has been entailed is very great.

WE heartily agree with the Watchman, that work upon the proposed iron bridge to span Spring creek on High street should begin at once. All the preparatory work, specifications, letting, etc., have been satisfactorily accomplished so far as we are aware, and there is no reason for longer delay. After it is once commenced the work of erection will last long enough, in all conscience. It is now a positive nuisance, and the sooner a handsome bridge structure is placed in position the better all will be satisfied.

THE Republican state convention, which is called for the 11th of July, will meet at Harrisburg, of course. As only two candidates, treasurer and auditor general, are to be nominated, but little interest will attach to the proceedings. It is also pretty generally admitted by the politicians that the Republicans will sweep the state this fall, which has a tendency to depress the Democrats and they will likely nominate men at their convention that they wish quietly laid away on the shelf.

A Massachusetts Enterprise.

A Visit to the New England Glass Works at Cambridge.

On our recent visit to the Eastern States we had the pleasure of revisiting the New England Glass Works, located at East Cambridge, Mass., in the service of which enterprise the senior editor of this paper was at one time engaged, and whose father was for many years foreman of the cutting department, having advanced to this important post from the position of an apprentice. This establishment is now operated by W. L. Libbey & Son and is one of the business landmarks of the city in which it stands, its huge chimney, which towers almost to the clouds, being a familiar spectacle to the thousands who dwell within sight of its walls. During the past dozen years it has enjoyed a reasonable prosperity and is recognized as one of the leading industries of the kind in the United States, having a heavy export as well as domestic trade. The Messrs. Libbey are live, practical men, and under their management the works have retained their old-time reputation for producing the finest quality of rich cut and decorated glassware. We were conducted through the show rooms and were particularly struck with the beautiful workmanship of the goods here on exhibition. The display of cut crystal ware was very fine, exceeding anything we have ever before seen in this line of goods. Among other articles we were shown a magnificent set of ware ordered expressly for the table service of the White House. The work on this collection was very elaborate and bears the traces of a master hand in its design and finish. The demands for more expensive goods increase every year, in keeping with the advance in art. Rich cut epergne dishes, fruit and salad bowls, decanters, water bottles, finger cups, etc., are finished with patterns costing double and triple the expense of patterns in vogue five years ago, and are largely taking the place of silver ware. Our attention was called to a new kind of glass which the Messrs. Libbey have recently introduced. This new article is called amberina, and for richness of coloring and delicacy of shading rivals tints of a summer's sunset. All the colors of the rainbow are blended in it, and the effect is beautiful. It has already become popular with the public, and is meeting with a ready sale, orders having been received from all parts of the country. The process by which this new product is manufactured is a secret with the New England works, having been invented by a member of the company. It is a source of gratification to Americans to know that our home manufactories are leading the market in the production of such artistic work. We neglected to state that what is known as lead glass is manufactured at these works, no lime being used, and is a much tougher and more durable article than the lime glass. In view of this fact, and the liability of the average Bellefonte lamp globe to go to pieces on the slightest provocation, we advise our merchants who deal in this article to lay in a stock from the New England house, even if obliged to make a slight advance on the price now paid. We are indebted to George Lowry, Esq., present foreman of the cutting department, for kind attentions while on this visit to our old shop and shopmates, some of whom we found still at their old posts of labor as they were twenty years ago, and some seemed not to be a day older than then, but we could not avoid a feeling of sadness as we also missed the faces of many who, in the years gone by, we knew so well—good, jolly, hard-working fellows. As we passed along the familiar walk of about three hundred feet, the length of the shop, along each side of which the men stand at their work, each one occupying about six inches of space, we could in our mind's eye see the men that stood there years ago, and when we asked, where is this one or that one the almost constant answer was, "dead." Some had gone to other places, but the great majority had gone to their long rest from care and labor. Of about sixty men who worked in this one department of the works twenty years ago we saw only the foreman, Mr. Lowry, Joseph Burdikin, Curtis Hobbs, Thomas Howard, William Parton and Thomas Singleton. In the carpenters' shop we found our old friend, James Savage, just where he has been for thirty years, only losing three weeks in all this time, and as natural as ever. We spent several hours in the place and left it with some reluctance, not wishing to intrude too much upon the kindness of Messrs. Libbey & Son, as we were informed by the gate keeper before we entered that they never allowed visitors in the works.

Winter Wheat Prospects.

The Agricultural Bureau, at Washington, has received very general reports from the Winter wheat growing sections of the country which, together with special reports, have been published in the New York Tribune and the Philadelphia Press. They make the prospect of a crop equalling that of last year, or much over 80 per cent of its amount, by no means probable.

The Winter wheat acreage this year is 26,734,200 acres in 26 states—slight increase over last year. An eighth and over of this, 3,839,000, is on the Pacific coast, and will give as large, probably a larger, crop than last year, from 45,000,000 to 50,000,000 bushels. Seven States, given in the order of size—Illinois, Ohio, Indiana, Missouri, Michigan, Pennsylvania and Kansas—give two-thirds of the acreage this side of the Rocky Mountains, or 15,800,000 out of 23,895,000. Three of these states—Ohio, Indiana and Illinois—lie in a belt together, hold one-third of our Eastern Winter wheat, and furnished one bushel in four of last year's crop. There is, so far as present present appearances go, every reason to believe that the crop in these states may be a third, and will certainly be a fifth, short. This cuts away from 25,000,000 to 40,000,000 bushels, one third the amount by which the bad crop of 1881-82 fell short of 1882-83. The Winter wheat beyond the Mississippi in Missouri, Kansas and other lesser areas is in as good condition as last year, this covering about an eighth of the supply, Kentucky and Tennessee, 2,500,000 acres, are a little better off than the states across the Ohio, but not much. Of the outlying states about the great wheat basin, Michigan, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, etc., the most that can be said is that there is an even chance of equaling last year. To sum up on advices from three-fourths of our wheat supply it must be concluded that one-fourth of our total (not Winter wheat) acreage will be a fifth and may be a third short, another fourth will equal last year and a third fourth be ten per cent short. Before basing any predictions on these facts it must be remembered, first, that good weather may recover all this deficiency; second that Spring wheat will make up a part of the shortage; but an increase on last year's crop seems no longer possible, a deficiency is now probable.

SENATOR BAYARD is down in Tennessee with both horses and politics, in view. If in his able speech on "national issues" he is no more luminous than at the Chicago Iroquois dinner, Tennessee will not gain much by his visit, except possibly in the horses he buys.

MR. DANA thinks that if Tilden was fifteen years younger he might be a candidate for President. That implies that he was about eight years too old when he was a nominal candidate, though his party friends would not then concede it.

The Increase of Pauperism.

The increase of pauperism in the older States of the Union, says the Pittsburg Dispatch, presents a very serious aspect of our social condition. The statistics of nearly all the Eastern States shows an increase in the number of persons who have required charitable relief, both in numbers and in ratio to the total population. This facts makes a striking contrast to the decrease of pauperism in England. The total number of persons on the charity rolls of England and Wales in 1871 was 1,081,000, and in 1882 it was but 797,614. The increase of pauperism in the single State of New York has been at a greater rate than the decrease in England for some years past.

The main cause for this rather startling difference lies in the large immigration which has gone on of late years. A great share of this immigration is self-sustaining and constitutes a direct addition to the wealth of the country. But that portion of it which arrives on our shores in a destitute condition contributes largely to the pauperism of the Atlantic States. It appears also that our means of assimilating pauper immigration and aiding it to independence, has not kept pace with the increased numbers of the immigrants. Forty years ago 60,000 was a large immigration for a single year, while for the past few years the country has received an addition to its population of over 500,000 annually.

A COMMITTEE of Episcopal clergymen has presented charges to Bishop Potter, against Rev. R. Heber Newton. They declare that he has violated the church constitutions; taught doctrines subversive of the supremacy of the Holy scriptures; virtually denied the divinity of Christ and his incarnation; discredited the miracles of the Old and New Testaments; erroneously stated the doctrines of the Holy Ghost; denied the second advent of Christ; that he has been guilty of acts involving a breach of his ordination vows; that he represented the religion of the Jews as a form of nature worship; falsely represented the mission and teaching of the Old Testament prophets; represented Christianity as an outcome of evolution; not as as a direct revelation from God, and rejected the predictive character of prophecy, thus impeaching the authority and denying the testimony of Jesus Christ. These doctrines the committee say are destructive to the foundation upon which the Protestant Episcopal church is built. The publication of such opinions by a clergyman of the church under circumstances of the greatest notoriety has become a grave scandal. His trial cannot take place before the first of July.

IF we would indite our editorial comments in the spirit that influences the Watchman we would aver that it was the temporary triumph of Democracy last Fall that brought about the great invasion of Italian and Hungarian workmen into this country. That because Pattison is Governor these miserable specimens of humanity are usurping the American in the construction of railroads and kindred employments. But we shall not be so prejudiced, and shall state the real truth. It is because capitalists of all parties and of no political party want to employ labor as cheaply as possible, and the supremacy of Democratic free-trade would soon degrade not only this horde of foreigners but also the American laborer to the lowest possible level. We have these specimens of laborers before our very eyes. They come from free trade countries. Let us take warning even if we are compelled to resort to Knownothingism.

ONE hundred vessels, carrying 4,250,000 bushels of grain, are lying at Chicago awaiting the opening of the Straits of Mackinaw.

SENATOR WALLACE, says the Williamsport Gazette and Bulletin, may yet be sorry that he noticed the "coffee pot frauds" so brusquely the other day after an ominous silence of fifteen years. A son of H. Bucher Swoope, whom the Senator insinuated was the author of the charge against him, rises up to defend his dead father, and in a caustic letter quotes some facts which had been well nigh forgotten. He revives a great political contest, that of Robinson vs. Shugart, in which his father appeared as counsel for the former. During that trial a mass of corruption and rascality were developed of the most infamous character, which had its origin in the famous political campaign of 1867. There are others living, notably Hon. John Cessna, who know all about that trial, and who no doubt stand ready to verify what the son says. If H. Bucher Swoope had been living Wallace would not have written that letter, but it looks as if the son is abundantly able to take care of the memory of his father. He points to the pages of the Legislative Record where the evidence of the damning frauds is printed, and boldly states that the Wallace faction after the most desperate efforts failed to suppress testimony bearing upon that famous contest.

The Rebate on Tobacco.

The latest order from the Department at Washington in regard to the rebate on tobacco is contained in the following circular :

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF INTERNAL REVENUE,
WASHINGTON, April 23, 1883.

Instruction No. 7, on form 195, is hereby amended by striking out the words "one pound or more," in the second line from the bottom of the column, and substituting therefor the words "more than one pound," and by striking out the word "less," in the following line, and substituting therefore the words "not more," so that the sentence shall read—

"This label must be securely affixed by pasting or gumming to each stamped package of cigars, and each box or case containing stamped packages of cigarettes, and to each stamped package of snuff or tobacco of more than one pound in weight, and to each box or case containing stamped packages of snuff or tobacco weighing not more than one pound each, and this must be done at or before the time of counting the packages."

GREEN B. RAUM,
CHARLES J. FOLGER, Commissioner.
Secretary.

SENATOR ANTHONY has so many friends, and is so generally respected, that the latest news of his physical condition will cause widespread regret. Uræmia, the disease from which he is said to be suffering, is a very serious disorder, and one from which a man who is well advanced towards his seventieth year cannot with any degree of hopefulness be expected to recover. At last accounts the doctors had almost given him up, and though while there is life there is hope, the worst must under the circumstances be anticipated. Should it so happen, a figure will be missing from the United States Senate when it next reassembles which has been familiar in that body for something like a quarter of a century.

"ONE WHO KNOWS" says that a reason for the failure of woman suffrage is that the right to vote brings with it the right to place, and women, knowing each other so well, would never consent to be governed by women. The envy, hatred, and all uncharitableness now existing among them is quite sufficient without the ambition, contention, and bitter dislike which the vote would entail. Besides, women of mature and thoughtful age have enough duties without being harassed by politics; and only such women have brains enough to understand and rightly weigh the grave question of politics.

THE editor of the Watchman will not attend the Czar's coronation.

Poetry.

TWO FISHERS.

One morning, when Spring was in her teens—
A morn to a poet's wishing,
All tinted in delicate pinks and greens—
Miss Bessie and I went fishing.

I in my rough and easy clothes,
With my face at the sun tan's mercy;
She with her hat tipped down to her nose,
And her nose tipped—vice versa.

I with my rod, my reel, and my hooks,
And a hamper for lunching recesses;
She with the bait of her comely looks,
And the seine of her golden tresses.

So we sat us down on the sunny dyke,
Where the white pond-lillies teeter,
And I went to fishing like quaint old Ike,
And she like Simon Peter.

All the noon I lay in the light of her eyes,
And dreamily watched and waited;
But the fish were cunning, and would not rise,
And the batter alone was baited.

And when the time for departure came,
My bag hung flat as a flounder;
But Bessie had neatly hooked her game—
A hundred-and-fifty-pounder.

A SONG FROM THE SUDS.

Queen of my tub, I merrily sing
While the white foam rises high;
And sturdily wash, and rinse and wring,
And fasten the clothes to dry;
Then out in the free fresh air they swing,
Under the summer sky.

I wish we could wash from our hearts and souls
The stains of a week away;
And let water and air, by their magic, make Ourselves as pure as they;
Then on the earth there would be, indeed,
A glorious washing day.

Along the path of a useful life
Will heart's ease ever bloom;
The busy mind has no time to think
Of sorrow, of care, of gloom,
And anxious thoughts may be swept away,
As we busily wield a broom.

I am glad the task to me is given
To labor day by day,
For it brings me health, and strength and hope,
And I cheerfully learn to say,
'Head, you may think, Heart, you may feel,
But, Hand, you shall work alway!'

—Hark! the signal bell is ringing!
Hastes he to the telephone.
"Hello! Hello!" some one's singing
In a silv'ry monotone.

"Can you hear, wife?" "Yes, I can, sir."
"What's the trouble? Tell the truth!"
With a buzz she breathes the answer:
"Baby's got another tooth!"

Our Story Teller.

Bella's Picture.

"He'll never marry you, Puss," said John Archer. Little Bella, his grand daughter, looked up, with wistful, startled eyes.

"Why not, grandfather? I think—I'm almost sure he likes me."

Bella Archer had neither mother nor sister, and had been in the habit of making all her maiden confidences to her grandfather.

Old John took his pipe out of his mouth, and watched the blue curls of the smoke as they floated up into the air.

"My girl," said he, "I think he does like you. But he's in debt, my dear. He's terribly tied down with that old mortgage, and the notes his father died and left him to pay off. And Hester Morris has a clear $1,000 of her own. A man can't afford to push fortune aside when she meets him face to face."

"If I thought so, grandfather—"

"Little girl," said John, not without a kindly pity in his voice, "you don't know the world as well as I do.

Bella silently rose from her seat, and taking a blue edged china bowl in her hand, went out to gather currants for tea—and to be alone and think.

"If Charley Walters can be as mercenary as that" she thought, with the big drops of crystal starting to her eyes, "then there is no truth and honesty left in all the world."

"Bella!"

Through the green wall of tall bushes the gleam of a pair of merry hazel eyes glittered upon her, and the next moment Charley Waters was at her side.

"I was coming this way on an errand to the mill," said he, "and so I thought I'd just run in. But, Bella, you are crying! What for?"

"I—I don't know!" faltered poor Bella, hanging down her head.

"But you must tell me! Dear Bella, your tears fall like drops of fire on my head, for I love you, Bella!"

"Oh, Charley!"

"I have loved you this long time, dear," he went on, tenderly pressing her hand in his; "only I dared not ask you to share my uncertain future. But some day, Bella, when I have paid off these debts and have a home to offer you, you will come and be its little queen?"

And Bella, half laughing, half crying, promised that she would.

"But," said she, with a demure twinke in her blue eyes, "Hester Morris is much more of an heiress than I am. Hester Morris has a thousand dollars all of her own, and I haven't a thousand cents."

"I love you," said Charley, "and I don't love Hester Morris! There's where it is, my little one. And although I can't deny that a thousand dollars would be very acceptable to me, still I don't propose to sell myself for any such sum of money as that."

Half an hour later Old John Archer was electrified to feel Bella's arms around his neck, her soft cheek laid against his stubby beard, and to hear her whispering:

"Grandfather, he does love me! He has told me so—and has asked me to be his wife."

The next morning was one of those brilliant August days when leaves scarcely stir in the golden rain of the sunshine, and the purple hills seem outlined like crayon sketches against the dazzling blue of the horizon, and John was sunning himself on a wooden bench in front of the house, when up trotted a party of gay young equestrians from the Overlook House, ten miles away.

"Can we get a glass of milk and something to eat here?" demanded Clay Dallas, the forerunner of the party, as he sprang from his high mettled grey horse.

John Archer shook his head gravely.

"This is not an inn, sir," said he.

"Not an inn? Why, there's the sign swinging now," said the young gentlemen, pointing with one finger up toward the warped and dilapidated board, on which was painted in letters well nigh washed out, the legend, "Entertainment for man and Beast."

"Yes," said John, "there's the sign, to be sure, just as it hung there in my son's days. He kept here, but I don't."

"How provoking!" said one of the ladies. "And now we shall have to ride on six miles further—and I am so thirsty."

"No need of that, no need of that!" alertly interrupted the old man. "It ain't no inn, to be sure, but my granddarter, Bella, will be proud to give you a glass of milk and some of her home-made ginger ale, if you'll alight. Walk in, walk in!"

He walked on in advance of them, and Bella, flushed and pretty, brought out her pitcher of milk and brown ginger bread at once. But one of the guests, a middle-aged gentleman, quite bald, with shinning black eyes, like beads, walked straight past the table to the chimney piece, where a black canvas hung, enclosed in a cheap frame of painted pine.

"What's this?" said he. "Eh? What's this?"

And he lifted a pair of gold eye glasses to his eyes and gazed intently.

"That?" said John Archer, rather deprecatingly. "Oh, that belongs to our little Bella! It ain't worth much to look at, I know, but she thinks it's better than the blank wall. It's laid up in the garret these twenty years, and she brought it down last spring. 'Granther,' says she, 'it'll just cover the stove-pipe hole!'"

"Where did you get it?" asked the gentleman.

"There was an old furrin gentlemen died here when my son Jack kept tavern—died of typhoid fever—and he set a deal of store by it. It was his wife, mebbe, or his mother, that there woman with the child in her arms. He had no relations as ever any one heard of. Jake buried him, poor creeter, and there was the end of it. But he lay and stared at that pictur to the last, a-mutterin' his furrin' lingo, Most likely it was some relation of his'n."

"Not exactly," said the dark gentleman, with a curious smile hovering around the corners of his lips. "It's a Madonna—one of Carlo Sforya's. Do you say it belongs to this little girl?"

"Yes, sir," said Bella, coloring and casting down her eyes under the dark lightning of his. "Father gave it to me for my playhouse."

"What will you take for it!"

"Take for it? Take for that ugly bit of black canvass that people had almost grudged houseroom to?"

Bella could hardly believe her ears.

"I—I don't know sir," she stammered—"I don't know quite what it's worth. Would ten dollars—"

"Ten dollars!" cried out the gentleman. "I'll give you a thousand!"

Bella put her hands resolutely behind her back.

"Sir, that would be cheating you. It isn't worth so much money."

The old virtuoso smiled grimly.

"Child," said he, "what do you know of art? Is it for you to decide what a Carlo Sforia is worth? A bottle of ink, please"—to old John, as he pulled out a pen case and a morocco leather paper book from his vest pocket.

He knocked up the frame at once, rolled up the black and age stained canvas and carried it off, as old John afterward remarked, as carefully as if it were a baby," while Bella, staring at her check for $1,000, could hardly believe that the whole thing was not a dream.

"But, grandfather, is this money all mine, to do what I like with it?"

"Of course it is, child."

"Then I'll give it to Charley to pay off the mortgage with, and can be married at once."

"A woman all over," said he. "Well, my lass, do with it just what will make you happiest.

Charley Walters refused to accept the money at first, and then he said he would take it as a loan.

"And you into the bargain, my little good fairy," said he with a smile that was half choked by a sob.

Not long ago a new member of Congress was invited to dinner. He describes it thus:—"There was nothing on the table when I got there but some forks and spoons and bricky-brac. Presently they brought in some soup. As I didn't see nothin' else I thought I'd eat all the soup I could, though soup is a mighty poor dinner to invite a fellow to. So I was helped four times, and then come on the finest dinner I ever see, and there I sot," groaned he, "chock full of soup!"—New Haven Reg.

In Vienna ballooning has become so popular that married men are not permitted to make an ascension without first obtaining the consent of their wives. If the balloon is an old and rotten one, and the husband devotes more time to pool than to work, we shouldn't think he would have any difficulty in obtaining the consent of his wife.

The patient tack will stand on its head a week waiting for the coming bare foot.

THE DUDE.

Facts and Fancies concerning It Gathered from the Exchanges.

A dudette is one of those little fellows whose mustache has not sprouted.

A duder is a young man who tries to act like a girl; a dudee is a girl who tries to act like a man.

Every well regulated composing room has a dude printer. One is said to be as much as an office can support.

You may know the dude by the way he sets his feet when he poses for the admiration of womankind; at right angles.

Imitation "Jack" roses are made up into effective looking bunches for "dudes" to throw at the big feet of their favorite actress in the theater.

Mr. Dude's new tennis suit is "quite too lovely for anything," and when he puts it on he will look more like a first-class idiot than ever before.

It is the gentle "dude" in his sausage skin pants who politely stands in the street car, holding on to a strap, while plainly dressed people enjoy the seats.

Advanced "dudes" now say that they are "reading law" because it sounds nice and disabuses folk of the idea that they spend all the time in the nursery.

"Yeth, thur," remarked the chattering dude at the club last night, "yeth, I actually climbed to the top of the Equitable to see ther view—ah!" "Why in the thunder didn't you jump off?" exclaimed an old gentleman in the corner, who was vainly trying to read.

First dude, with an embarrassed smile: "Say, Augustus, I really believe I've broken a corset-lacing. Have you an extra one with you?" Second dude, with an expression of horror: "Really! why Algernon, where could you fix if I had one? The gyurls are all looking at us, ye know."

Dr. Holmes sketches the dude in his latest poem:

"Our last-hatched dandy with his glass and stick
Recalls the semblance of a new-born chick;
To match the model he is aimed at
He ought to wear an eggshell for a hat."

Beware, my daughter, oh, beware of the dude. He is beautiful to look at while his corset strings hang out and his powder is dry, but beyond that he is an earthly thing. Like the flower in his button hole, he is liable to fade in the sunlight, and for this he goeth forth after the shadows have fallen.

"I see that it is feeding time for the dudes!" said a sarcastic woman at the theatre, when the tight-pants young man broke ranks after the first act.

"How's that?" said the young-man-afraid-to-go-away-from-her.

"They are going out for their dewd-d-drops!"

The word "dude," pronounced in two syllables, has been used in the little town of Salem, N. H, for 20 years past, and it is claimed, was coined there. It is common there to speak of a dapper young man as a "dude of a fellow," of a small animal as a "little dude," of a sweetheart as "my dude," and of an æsthetic youth of the Oscar Wilde type as a dude.

The mission of the dude seems to be to crush out the cad, his very meekness, silence and refinement being so much the antipodes of the distinguishing traits of the cad, that the latter is, metaphorically speaking, cast into outer darkness by the new regulator of the frivolities of the world. The dude has one crowning virtue, he loathes and contemns the "masher." Let us encourage the dude.

The dude is from 19 to 28 years of age, wears trousers of extreme tightness, is hollow chested, effeminate in his ways, apes the English and distinguishes himself among his fellow-men as a lover of actresses. The badge of his office is the paper cigarette, and his bell-crown English opera hat is his chiefest joy. They are seen in large numbers at the theatres, where they form one of the interesting features of the evening entertainments. They are offensive because they blow cigarette smoke in ladies' faces and monopolize the bar between the acts.

"What is the dude, papa?" she said,
With sweet, inquiring eyes;
And to the knowledge-seeking maid
Her father thus replies

A weak mustasche, a cigarette,
A thirteen-button vest,
A curled-rim hat—a minaret—
Two watch-chains cross the breast.

A pair of bangs, a lazy drawl,
A lack-a-daisy sir;
For gossip at the club or ball,
Some little past "affair."

Two pointed shoes, two spindle-shanks,
Complete the nether charms;
And follow fitly in the ranks,
The two bow-legged arms.

An empty head, a buffoon's sense,
A posing attitude;
"By Jove!" "Egad!" "But aw!" "Immense!"
All these made up the dude.

It was about medium height, dark complexion, and what purported to be a moustache adorned its upper lip, and on either side of its face about a dozen hairs, stiff with cosmetique, were combed toward its face. On its left hand it had a large seal ring, and the thumb and forefinger of a light yellow glove were pulled on in such a manner, however, that the ring showed to great advantage. Its pants were so tight that it was with difficulty that it could assume a sitting position, and after once having gained that position it was obliged to arise and lay its long coat-tails out evenly on either side, taking up the space of about three seats in the car. It was a dude.

"Mother, what is that thing gliding down the avenue that looks like a chalk crayon encircled with a band of purple crewel!"

"That is a dude, my son, and I wish you to observe his make-up so that you will recognize one of the tribe when you again encounter it. He wears a tight fitting, unsettled-for suit of clothes, yellow topped shoes, a fly-up-the-creek overcoat, a butter-dish hat, speckled socks, a piccadilly collar, and a Prince of Wales vest. He carries a six-penny cane, chews a linnwood tooth pick, paints his lips, pencils his eyebrows, wears a strap-me-up-until-I-can-breathe-at-intervals-only corsets, and he also wears a painful-I-see-a-creditor-like expression upon his powdered mug."

A pair of them met on Fifth avenue when the sun was low. One of them drawled out:

"How are you, my brave boy?"

"Eh? Oh, I cawn't say as I'm too brisk, don't chew know? I'm freakish to-doy."

"You look a bit queer."

"Yaas. I've been in the eating house here trying to worry down a bit of chop with some shandygaff. How are you?"

"Oh, I'm fine, you know. I took a tub this mawning, then tooled me new cart up the avenue, and had a good apetoit for breakfast."

"Rathah decent fun."

"Yaas."

"See you at the club latah."

A New York Sun reporter was detailed to run down the rumor that a cat had chased a dude up Fifth Avenue, greatly to his disparagement. Finding one of the species standing on the corner, he put the question at him plumply:

"Oh, I say!" said the youth, with a tranquil smile. "It's quite too bad, don't chew know, to put it upon the—er—aw—dude, y'know loike that. The dude's not haw! as bad as painted! Chased by a cat—Haw!"

"What is a dude?"

"A dude," answered the youth slowly, "is a gentleman. A cad can never be a dude. He must not be in trade, but must have money. I dare say there are dudes who have very little money, but they have blood, y' know. But the point of the thing is that the dude is the embodiment-er-of-the-ah triumph of the gentleman over the cad."

"Is there any fun in being a dude?"

"To the vulgaw a dude is not impressive. The gorgeous swell took the eye. The women worshipped him for the richness of his dress and the waitahs in eating houses were overpowered but the dude is essentially negative. He is not a spectacle; he is a quiet, self-contained gentleman. He is refined, and he is distinguished from common people by his manners. In England we have a landed aristocracy, in America the aristocrats are popularly known as dudes, y'know. A fellah dressed properly and waiting quietly on the Strand or in Pell Mell is known simply as an English gentleman; but when he appears in the same attire on Fifth av'noo he at once becomes a dude."

Lively Racket With a Buck.

Charley Chick, a veteran land looker and woodsman, residing at Baldwin, and well known throughout this section, met with an exciting adventure with a deer recently, in the northern part of Newago county. He was land looking in town 15, 12, accompanied only by his dog, a bull terrier. Hearing his dog barking furiously at something quite a distance away and across the river from where he was, he went over the stream, and on snow shoes went to investigate the cause of the racket. He had noticed lynx tracks several times during the afternoon, and thought that the dog had treed a lynx. Owing to the peculiar nature of the ground he could not see the disturbance until fairly upon them. Instead of a lynx his dog had brought to bay a very large buck deer. The crust of the snow was strong enough to hold the dog, but not the deer, and they were having a lively time of it. Not wishing to kill the animal at this season of the year he broke off a limb from the dry hemlock and struck the dog two or three times and made him loosen his hold, the dog having a solid hold on the buck. No sooner had the dog loosened his grip than the ungrateful deer turned upon Chick with great fury and made a fierce charge upon him. He was armed with a hunting knife and revolver. He determined to run, but made such poor headway upon his snow shoes that the enraged buck soon overtook him. In the onset the deer's foot struck the rawhide net work of the snow shoe and broke it. Any person who has ever tried walking on snow shoes knows what a predicament that puts a man in. The dog came to the rescue of his master, and for a time it was a badly mixed-up mess of man, dog and deer. Finally, getting his foot free from the broken snow shoe, he drew a revolver and put a ball in the deer's head. The next moment the buck knocked him down and made a vigorous effort to stamp him under the snow. The dog seized the deer, and that animal turned upon him. Chick had lost his revolver in the onslaughts. Before the deer again turned to Chick he had time to draw his knife, a long-bladed dirk. This time he grappled the deer and hung on to his head and neck with one arm while he plied the knife with the other, finally succeeding in killing the buck. Chick arrived home in a badly battered condition, with his clothes torn and damaged. His whole life has been spent in the wood, and he says that this was the most exciting adventure he ever had.

The Pay of Postmasters.

The new law for the adjustment of the salaries of postmasters taken in connection with the forthcoming reduction of letter postage from three to two cents—will effect a material change in the pay of postmasters in all small offices, as well as in the amount of revenue derived from such offices by the government. It is estimated by those best qualified to judge that under the new law and upon the present volume of business the aggregate revenue of the postoffice department from the sale of postage stamps of all kinds will be reduced one-fifth, or 20 per cent. Upon the the basis of this estimate the proportionate receipts of the government and the postmasters respectively in the smaller offices will be changed as follows: In a postoffice where the annual revenue from stamps amounts to $50 the postmaster now receives $30 and the government $20. Under the new law for a like amount of business the postmaster will receive $40 and the government nothing.

Similar proportionate charges will be made in the receipts of the government and the postmasters, according to the amount of business done, until offices are reached which have a gross revenue from stamps of $250 per annum. In this class of offices postmasters now receive $150 per annum, and the government $100. Under the new law the former will receive $200 and the latter nothing. In offices where the revenue exceeds that of the class last mentioned, the government begins to derive revenue. For instance: In a postoffice where the income from the sale of stamps amounts to $400 a year, the postmaster now receives $240 and the government $160. Under the new law the postmaster will receive $272 and the government $48. In a postoffice with an annual revenue of $600 the postmaster is now paid $340 and the government receives $260. Under the new law the postmaster will receive $360 and the government $112. An office with an annual revenue of $800 under the present law pays the postmaster $440 and the government $360. Under the new law the same office will pay the postmaster $460 and the government $180.

In the postoffices where the annual revenue reaches $1,000 the pay of the postmaster under the present and the new law is the same, $540; but under the present law the government receives $460, while under the new law it will get only $200.

In offices which have an annual income of $1,200, the new law will reduce the pay of postmasters from $640 to $620, and the receipts of the government $560 to $340.

In offices with an annual income of $1,600, the pay of postmasters will be reduced from $800 to $780, and the receipts of the government from $800 to $500.

In offices where the pay of the postmasters derived from the sale of stamps reaches $800, the income from the rent of boxes is usually enough to made the compensation of the postmasters $1,000 per year, and when it reaches that amount the office is placed in the third class. The postmaster is then commissioned by the President with a specified salary, and his pay is no longer determined by the amount of stamps which he cancels.

Why She Changed.

A retail grocer secured a new customer a few days ago in the person of a well dressed lady, who ordered and paid for a large bill of groceries. The grocer was desirous of keeping her trade, and, therefore, when she came again and paid him half a dollar with a hole in it, among other change, he received it and said nothing. Next day he was obliged to take another, and during the next week she handed out a dozen coins which had the dreaded holes letting daylight through them. Finally, a little girl came in one day and inquired:

"Is this the place where ma trades?"

"Who is your ma?"

"Mrs.——"

"Yes, this is the place."

"Well, then, I want a pound of crackers."

They were done up for her, and she handed over a quarter which was battered as well as punched.

"Can't take it, sissy," said the grocer.

"Why?"

"Because there is a hole in it."

"Don't you take 'em any more?"

"No."

"Well, this was the last one ma had, and she was going back to our old grocer as soon as we got rid of it! I guess she'll have to give this to the orphans!"

"What line of goods does that fellow carry?" asked one drummer of another, pointing to a spindle-shanked young man with an umbrella under his arm and a single-barrelled glass in his eye. 'He isn't a traveller,' was the reply; 'he's only an English tourist.' 'Oh, I see,' said the first speaker; 'but I thought he was a representative of a sawmill, and wore that buzz saw in his eye as a trade mark.'

"You wouldn't take me for a married man, would you?" asked a student of a Cortland girl last Sunday night. "I rather think I would if you ask me," was the response. He bought a ring next day.

A boy says in his composition that "Onions are the vegetable that make you sick when you don't eat them yourself."

Beautiful Incident.

A dainty little girl of eight or nine, with dangerous big eyes, appeared in the library of the White House the other day when it was full of great men of one sort and another, and quietly waited her turn to speak with the tall, dignified gentleman with the gray hair and whiskers, and the sober face and the courteous manner, down by the bow window in the south end of the room. By and by her opportunity came. She tripped forward modestly, but bravely, and with a "Good morning, Mr. President," told her name and proffered her request. She was a niece of General Winfield Scott Hancock, and she wanted a few sweet flowers from the executive conservatory for the Easter decorations of a little Episcopal church. She smiled archly as she told her errand, as though she was quite sure of a favorable response. The President's tired face brightened with smiles as he turned from the tiresome politicians to the sweet little face before him. It was like a cooling zephyr from the Chesapeak on a hot summer's day. He told her honestly that he was very glad to see her, and then he gave her carte blanche in the conservatory, and dismissed her with a pleasant word or two about his own little girl, who does so much to lighten up life in the White House. Her handsome uncle could not have done more for her had he been standing in Arthur's place.

Lapland and its People.

"The population of Lapland is estimated at 27,000," says a missionary to a reporter of the Chicago News. "The orgin of the word Lapp is unknown, but it is supposed to mean nomad. The Lapps, like their names, are of unknown origin. They are as a race, distinct from any other people in Europe. They have straight, brown hair, light eyes, and no beard. Their complexion has been represented to be a sort of copper-color, but that is a mistake. They appear to be of that complexion because they are begrimed with smoke. But when they wash their faces they are seen to be of a pale, ashy, and rather bluish-white complexion. In character they are friendly and hospitable. They can all shoot, but they are not at all warlike in disposition. For truthfulness, honesty and virtue they compare favorably with other European races, but their intelligence is of a low order. They speak a language which is somewhat easy to acquire, and which is very different from European languages. It is a written as well as a spoken language, and many of them can read and write it. Owing to the rigor of the climate, the Lapps are not so prolific as our European races. A couple in Lapland hardly ever have more than three children, though I believe that is higher than the average in America."

The Soldiers' Memorial Day.

At a meeting of Gregg Post, No. 95, G. A. R., held on Saturday evening, April 21, 1883, Commander H. H. Benner appointed the following committees preparatory to "Decoration Day," May 30, 1883, viz:

Committee on Music—Comrades George F. Harris, Samuel H. Williams and William Jones.

Committee on Floral Decorations—Comrades R. C. Irvin, James H. Rankin and H. A. Williams.

Committee on Marking Graves—Comrades John I. Curtin, E. A. Smith, William Smith and D. S. Keller, assisted by other comrades of the Post.

Committee to secure Decoration Flags and Handles and to have the same arranged for decorating graves—Comrades D. M. Glenn and F. P. Green.

Committee on Oration—Comrades James H. Rankin, Samuel Gault and John B. Linn.

Committee on Memorial Sermon—Comrades Amos Mullen, Christ. Dale and John I Curtin.

Committee to devise means of getting Flags and Decorations for Cemeteries—Comrades D. M. Glenn, Qr. M., and Jesse Stewart.

The Adjutant was directed to invite the military and civic organizations within the Post limits to participate in the exercises of the day. It is also the desire of the Commander that each comrade procure his own white gloves for the memorial and decoration services. Further notice will be given as the Post proceeds with its arrangements.

Comrade Benner also suggests that anyone knowing of a soldier being buried in any of the cemeteries within the borough or the Post limits within the last year (or since last Decoration Day) will please report the same to him, or any comrade of Gregg Post, with name, company and regiment of deceased. It is the desire of the comrades of the G. A. R. that no soldier's grave shall go undecorated, and any deceased comrade, regardless of sect or color, shall have the proper tribute of respect shown him on Decoration Day. It is not the intention of the Grand Army of the Republic to make the 30th day of May a day of jollification and grand show, but to pay reverence and respect to their fallen comrades. It is, therefore, the request of Gregg Post, No. 95, that the citizens generally whenever the decoration of soldiers' graves takes place, will lend assistance by laying aside business for that day and contributing what they can in paying respect to the country's fallen protectors.

A Batch of Interesting News.

STORMSTOWN, April 25, 1883.

Joseph Eves, a prominent citizen of this place, is about erecting a new residence on his second farm.

We regret the departure of our friend Mr. John Purdue, who moved to Tyrone. We shall miss him very much.

We have a railroad boom, too. Your townsman, Mr. Daniel Rhoads, is laying a track from his ore bank to his washer. It will soon be completed.

It is with regret that we record the sad and sudden death of Mr. Henry Beck, of Hannah Furnace, on Tuesday, the 24th inst. He was about 50 years of age. He was a brave soldier of the late war. His life formed a fair example for imitation. Ceaseless activity and industry characterized all his efforts. All who knew him respected him and his death will cause universal sorrow.

Thieves are making their presence known, hereabouts. They recently entered Mr. John Wilson's stable at Half Moon, taking from it a valuable full blooded Alderney calf about eight weeks old. They led the calf about a quarter of a mile from the premises, skinned it, cut the hide into ribbons and fled with the choice lot of veal which its flesh furnished. They are certainly hungry thieves, for a few nights after the exploit mentioned above a party—supposed to be the same—made a descent upon George Hoover's chicken coop, carrying away some of his best fowls.

Snatched from the Grave.

My wife was at the brink of the grave. She had been given up to die by three of Allegheny City's best physicians. They all pronounced her disease consumption. Her finger-nails and lips were blue; was pulseless at the wrist; we were all called to witness her death. At this moment a neighbor brought in Dr. Hartman, who prescribed a teaspoonful of Peruna every hour. She improved from the first dose, and in a week she was up, and now (less than six months) she is well. See page 30 in the "Ills of Life," a book you can get gratis from your druggist. If not, address Dr. Hartman, Osborn, Ohio.

OF ANOTHER AGE.

Gradually Supplanted by a Better Article, Certain Old Things are Done Away.

In the general reception room of the Western Union Telegraph building on Broadway, New York, are exhibited the coarse, crude and clumsy instruments of the infancy of the telegraph. They are only relics now. More perfect machinery has superseded them.

Years ago what is now styled the old-fashioned porous plaster did some good service. There was then nothing better of the kind. Now all that is changed. Science and study have gone deeper into the secrets of medicine and produced BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER, which embodies all the excellencies thus far possible in an external remedy. The old plasters were slow—the Capcine is rapid; they were uncertain—the Capcine is sure. Cheaper articles bear similar names. Be careful, therefore, that some thrifty druggist does not deceive you. In the centre of the genuine is cut the word CAPCINE. Price 25 cents.

The Convention in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, April 26.—During the proceedings of the convention in Horticultural Hall, Philadelphia, yesterday, the following telegram from Charles Stewart Parnell, the Irish agitator, was read:

LONDON, April 26.—To James Mooney, President of the Irish-American Convention, Philadelphia: My presence at the opening of the most representative convention of Irish-Americans in my opinion ever assembled being impossible, owing to the necessity of my remaining here to oppose the criminal code bill which reenacts permanently the worst provisions of coercion and if passed will leave the constitutional movement at the mercy of the government, I would ask you to lay my views before the convention. I would respectfully advise that your platform should be so framed as to enable us to continue to accept help from America and at the same time avoid affording a pretext to the British government for entirely suppressing the national movement in Ireland. In this way only can unity of movement be preserved both in Ireland and America. I have perfect confidence that by prudence, moderation and firmness, the cause of Ireland will continue to advance, and though persecution rests heavily upon us at present, before many years have passed we shall have achieved those great objects for which through many centuries our race has struggled.

CHARLES STEWART PARNELL.

PHILADELPHIA, April 27.—The national Irish convention was called to order at 11 a. m. A letter of sympathy from Congressman S. S. Cox was read and addresses were made by Fathers Boyland, of Ireland, and Agnew, of Scotland. The thanks of the convention were tendered them. A recess was then taken until 2 p. m.

Upon reassembling the chairman of the committee on resolutions reported a platform.

It declares it the duty of the government to protect lives and property of citizens, severely arraigns England for its course toward Ireland; declares it the duty of the Irish people throughout the world to sustain the Irish people in the employment of all legitimate means to substitute national self-government; pledges support, moral and material, to our countrymen in Ireland; demands a fair day's wages for a fair day's work; counsels Irishmen to buy nothing in England that can be produced in Ireland or procured from America or France and to persuade American tradesmen from keeping English goods on sale; protests against England reducing Irish peasantry to paupers and sending them to this country for support and directs the attention of the American government to this iniquity; extends the thanks of the convention to a number of Catholic bishops and a welcome to Patrick Egan.

The committee on organization then reported in favor of banding together under the name of the "National League of America." It declares the object of the league is for the purpose of co-operating with the Irish national league; to encourage home manufactories and education; to abolish sectional feeling of malice; to keep alive the flame of Irish nationality and to weaken the enemy by discouraging her manufacturers. It provides for a governing body composed of a president, vice president and one member from each state, territory, District of Columbia and the dominion of Canada, and prescribes their duties. It shall appoint an executive committee of seven to be centrally located who shall prepare such rules, regulations and by-laws as they shall deem best for the management and control of finances, etc.

The report was adopted.

Alexander Sullivan, of Chicago, was elected President.

Raum Resigns.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—Mr. Green B. Raum, commissioner of internal revenue, surprised the president yesterday by tendering his resignation, to take effect to-morrow. The president at first was disposed to think that Mr. Raum only needed a little coaxing to remain in the office he has acceptably filled for nearly seven years. He changed his mind, however, when Mr. Raum assured him that he not only had contemplated this action for some time, but had disposed of every pending case which required his decision so his successor would be unembarrassed by unfinished business. He said he could not afford to remain in office any longer. The salary, $6,000 per annum, just about paid his household expenses here in Washington, and, as he had nine children depending upon his exertions, he thought it was time to turn his attention to more lucrative labor. The president asked him if it was necessary he should resign so soon; could he wait a few weeks? Mr. Raum explained that if his resignation was pending any time he would be importuned from every quarter to reverse decisions he had already made. The president saw that Mr. Raum's purpose could not be changed, and said that he accepted it with the greatest regret, for no branch of the public service in his opinion was more faithfully and ably managed than the internal revenue system in all its details had been under Commissioner Raum. Mr. Raum will remain here to practice law. Deputy Commissioner Rodgers, who has been in the office for over ten years, will act until the appointment of a successor. Already the names of ex-Congressmen Butterworth and Burrows are mentioned as candidates for the place.

Going to Fortress Monroe.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—The president is rapidly dispatching business that accumulated during his Florida trip, preparatory to another jaunt for vacation. A suite of rooms have been engaged for him at Fortress Monroe and the Dispatch is kept at the navy yard here awaiting his orders. The Tallapoosa is also at the yard, but past experience has warned the president not to trust himself again on salt water in such a rolling tub. Despite talk to the contrary, the president is not in as good health as he would like, but his principal trouble is lack of appetite. It comes from good authority that he has not eaten as much since last Sunday as he would ordinarily eat at one meal. He has determined, therefore, to try the exhilarating effects of salt air at Fortress Monroe, where he will not be subject to malarial influences. It is probable that the president will leave Washington the first week in May and be gone a month.

Work of the Flames.

PHILADELPHIA, April 26.—The Arch street opera house was burned this morning, and for the third time since it was built. The flames originated by the explosion of a gas stove under the steps leading to the gallery, and spread rapidly to the roof. The fire soon made its way to the stage, and the greatest damage was done there, including the destruction of the wardrobe, valued at $3,000, which belonged to the house. The roof fell in and crushed many seats in the auditorium, but the body of the house is not seriously damaged. The theatre has not been occupied for several weeks. It is owned by Bolton Winpenny and leased to Joseph E. Winner. The loss, it is thought, will not exceed $15,000, as the walls are standing and the front of the building is uninjured. The building was insured for $19,000.

A Fatal Blow-Up.

FALL RIVER, Mass., April 26.—An attempt was made to-night to blow up the ruins of a massive granite tower, left standing amid the debris of the burned flint mill. The charge of twenty-five pounds of atlas powder exploded, literally leaving the tower unmoved, but scattering stones and timbers among the crowd that had assembled to witness the operations. Jas. Maguire, a watchman, was struck by a large stone and killed. No other serious accident occurred, though a panic existed in the crowd for a few moments.

Prohibition again Defeated.

DETROIT, Mich., April 25.—In the senate this forenoon the prohibition amendment to the constitution, which had been put on its passage, was lost by a vote of 20 to 11, not a two-third, but nearly a strict party vote. The proposition providing for local option was laid on the table for future consideration. This action to-day shows the impossibility of carrying the prohibition amendment in this legislature.

Memorial Day in the South.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 26.—Memorial day was observed here to-day. There was an immense concourse at the cemetery.

SAVANNAH, April 27.—Memorial day was observed here by an entire suspension of business. Large crowds were at the cemeteries decorating the soldiers' graves.

A Reception to Egan.

PHILADELPHIA, April 27.—A reception was tendered Patrick Egan at the Academy of Music this evening. Egan expressed the confident belief that Ireland will again become a nation. Speeches were made by Thos. Brennan, Samuel J. Randall, Col. McClure and others.

Civil Engineer Dead.

NORFOLK, Va., April 25.—Milton Cawdfright, of Erie, Pa., a distinguished civil engineer and railroad contractor, died to-day.

Robbing seaside Cottages.

ASBURY PARK, April 27.—Thomas H. Ellis pleaded guilty to five burglaries yesterday, and was sentenced to eight years at hard labor in State prison. He swore that his wife, who was implicated with him, knew nothing of the robberies and had no hand in them, and she was discharged. He was a mechanical engineer, who came from London three years ago to accept a position in Fletcher's mills. Many burglaries have been committed in this vicinity within two years, but suspicion did not fall on Ellis last Saturday.

Mrs. Annibaldi, whose cottage was robbed in December, 1881, was making some purchases in a store, when Ellis, his wife, and three children entered. Mrs. Annibaldi was surprised to find the chubby three-year-old child that held the hand of its mother dressed in a frock made from one of the garments stolen from her cottage. Examining the attire of the woman, she found she wore no less than three articles, the proceeds of the same robbery, while Ellis wore a pair of Mr. Annibaldi's Paris made trousers. A large quantity of plunder was found in his cottage. It consisted of articles stolen from Mr. Annibaldi, Mr. Somers, Mr. Kroel, Mr. Halse, and Mr. Lillingore. Many articles also were found for which no owners have appeared.

The New Railroads.

The L. H. Journal of Friday had the following valuable information in regard to recent railroad movements:

It has been definitely decided to commence building the Williamsport and Clearfield RR., running from the mouth of Beech Creek to Cato and Snow Shoe. Work will commence early in May, and the line will be pushed rapidly to completion. The contract, we are informed, has been given to a construction company of large means in the city of New York, and the Superintendent is expected on the ground next week. An agreement has been entered into between the Williamsport and Clearfield Co., on the one side, the Penn'a RR., B. E. V. RR. and P. & E. companies on the other side, under which the former company agrees to build a railroad from the mouth of Beech Creek to Snow Shoe, the latter parties agreeing to pro rate it as to traffic, and set apart 20 per cent.of the freight charges received for traffic going over their limes coming off the Beech Creek road, and invest the same in the first mortgage bonds of the Williamsport and Clearfield RR. The Williamsport and Clearfield have recorded in in this county a mortgage to secure the payment of $3,000,000.

SUSQUEHANNA & ALLEGHENY.

A gentleman well versed in railroad matters said this morning that he believed the Susquehanna and Allegheny line running from Milton to Punxsutawney would be built. Walston H. Brown, who made a big sum out of the "Nickle Plate' road, is a man of wonderful energy and plenty of capital. When this line shall have been completed he will have a trunk line 90 miles shorter than any other present or contemplated line from New York to Chicago. When he gets to Milton Mr. Brown will have three powerful corporations to negotiate with, viz: the Penn'a, the Reading and the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western. Either of these roads would be willing to buy up this new and shortest route connecting the largest city of the west and the metropolis of the east, and Mr. Brown is sure to realize handsomely.

Wedding of a Bellefonte Young Lady.

Decidedly unexpected but exceedingly pleasant is the announcement that came to-day that Miss Maggie Bayard, daughter of Captain George Bayard, of this place, was married on Wednesday, April 25, to Mr. George Bowen. The happy bride is well known in Bellefonte and has for a long time been visiting her uncle, Mr. Robert Cassidy, at Canton, Ohio. The groom is a resident of the latter place and is said to be a very excellent young gentleman. The bride certainly merited the best life partner to be found swimming in the matrimonial sea and if what report says is true a life of happiness and prosperity awaits them. The joyful event took place at Beaver Falls, Pa., the Rev. Moorhead, of that place, being the officiating minister. They have our best wishes.

CAST SCRAP IRON WANTED.—Will pay cash or exchange for hardware at H. K. Hicks' hardware and stove store. dawtf

—Following from the Tyrone correspondent of the Altoona Tribune will be of interest to Bellefonte readers as Mr. John Walker, one of the parties concerned in it, is a former resident of this place. The correspondence is as follows:

On Thursday of this week, at Lewistown, by Rev. Sherlock, Mr. John Walker, flagman on the Bald Eagle Valley local, and Miss Nellie Banks, of Lewistown, were united in marriage. Mr. Walker, who is one of Tyrone's gentlemanly, upright, clever and noblest young men, together with his estimable lady, who is one of Mifflin county's fairest daughters, have our best wishes and kindest regards for their future welfare and happiness.

—Ladies, cultivate flowers for Decoration Day. The indications are that the supply will be limited this year and by commencing in time and having the object in view of contributing them to this purpose the supply can be made as large as ever before. It is a beautiful custom and one which is growing in general observance.

WANTED.—A clerkship in a store or office. Have had two years experience. Best of reference given. Address Postoffice Box 54, Philipsburg, Pa. a25 3td-w1t*

—The Post Office at Fowler, Centre Co., Pa., has been re-established with Samuel S. Miles as postmaster.

—Years of experience have rendered the proprietors of Harry Teats & Co.'s store expert and successful grocers.

—Saturday was an immense day for trade.

—Perfection has indeed been reached in the management of Harry Teats & Co.'s store.

Died.

SHUNK.—In Salinas City, April 8, 1883, James Monroe Shunk, a native of Pennsylvania, aged 45 years.

[The deceased was afflicted with cancer and suffered intensely for some time previous to his death. He bore his suffering with fortitude, and calmly awaited the summons across the Dark River. He leaves a wife and one child who have the deep sympathy of many friends in their sad affliction. The funeral took place on Monday.]

The above notice, clipped from a Western newspaper, was sent to a gentleman in this place for insertion in the newspapers. We understand the deceased was a former resident of this vicinity, and some of our readers will doubtless remember him.

—The best groceries at lowest rates at Harry Teats & Co.'s store.

—Eli Perkins arrived in Bellefonte on Saturday morning and spent the day previous to the lecture quite pleasantly with the gentlemen of the town who called on him.

—You know it and don't you forget it—to buy your next cigars of Harry Green.

—Colds prevail quite numerously. J. W. Gephart, Esq., and Mr. James Irvin were among those seriously indisposed in this respect on Sunday.

—Remember, great reductions in groceries at Sechler's store.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

In dropping its department of set criticism on current literature, The Century Magazine, it is said, will not slight the subject of books. It merely recognizes the fact that the daily and weekly newspapers cover the field of ordinary publications, and that it is more in the province of the magazine to discuss books of permanent and special value, and to consider modern literature especially in its general tendencies and relations. By thus concentrating its space and energies the Century will perform a higher service to American authorship as well as to its readers. The line it will pursue may be inferred partly from the literary papers it is said to have in hand for early publication. Mr. Stedman's incisive essays on the leadership of American letters will appear at intervals. In the June number, Mr. James Herbert Morse will begin a discussion in two parts, of "The Native Element in American Fiction." Mr. Morse's ripe scholarship and originality of view have been appreciated, for some time past, by the few who knew his individual light under the anonymous bushel. John Burroughs will contribute his say upon Carlyle to an early number; and Henry James, Jr., has written several critical essays to follow his paper on "Du Maurier and London Society" in the May number. The subjects, so far as announced, are: "The Correspondence of Carlyle and Emerson," for the June number, and studies of "Alphonse Daudet," whom Mr. James regards as chief among the new race of French novelists, and "Anthony Trollope." In considering the latter's life and works, Mr. James is reported to have given, pretty fully, his views on the art of story telling. Besides these papers, there will be published a number of signed "Open Letters" on important current publications.

THE LATEST NEWS.

A Mighty Cyclone.

MACON, Ga., April 23.—Specials report a terrific cyclone in southwest Georgia. Twenty-five deaths are reported and the injured cannot be estimated.

NEW ORLEANS, April 23.—A special to the Times-Democrat from Wesson, Mississippi, says: A frightful cyclone passed over Wesson and the town of Beauregard, about a mile above, about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Its approach was known some minutes by deep, rumbling sounds, the windows in dwellings shaking with the violence, and many thought it an earthquake. Thunder roared and lightning flashed with alarming force and vividness. Fences were torn down and trees uprooted and cast hundreds of yards away. East of the railroad in Wesson the damage was light, but in a portion of Wesson the destruction was great. As soon as the storm had abated, and the people began to look about, loud peals of the church bells rang out. People were seen on all sides sobbing, and the groans of the wounded beneath the ruins were perfectly appalling. The dwellings were torn to atoms, and a pine forest just beyond was blown out of existence. The work of removing the dead and extricating the wounded from the ruins was then begun. Calvin Reed, living in the vicinity, died from excitement. Drs. Sexton, Rease and Butler were soon upon the scene and did all in their power to relieve the wounded. The estimated number killed is twelve. Two or three children are missing. One hundred and fifty or two hundred dwellings were blown down. The number of people with broken limbs is estimated, by the physicians, at seventy-five. The wounded were removed as fast as possible to the houses which escaped injury. Several of the dead lay out in the violent rain for more than an hour after the storm. The dead are now all laid out and coffins are being made for them.

Eight persons were killed and twenty-five wounded at Albany, Ga. At Eastman two are reported killed. At Tillman, Miss., Mr. Gaggett is killed and Calvin Phillips, Miss Covington and Miss Baggett slightly injured. The towns are in ruins and property of all kinds in the vicinity is greatly damaged. Beauragard is a perfect wreck. No house escaped.

JACKSON, Miss., April 23.—Reports of destruction by the cyclone are coming in. At Wesson thirteen were killed and six wounded. At Beauraguard twenty-three were killed and ninety wounded. Twenty-seven houses in Wesson were destroyed. Beauraguard was entirely swept away and the suffering is very great. On the Natchez and Columbus railroad the town of Tillman is destroyed. Several were killed and wounded. On the Vicksburg and Meredian railroad the town of Lawrence suffered terribly. Reports from other places and from the country show that the storm was widespread and destructive. The telegraph lines are blown down for miles.

CHATTANOOGA, April 23.—Fully $11,000 damage was done in this city by the storm last night.

DES MOINES, Ia., April 23.—A cyclone passed up Maple river valley early last evening, following close along the spur of the Chicago and Northwestern railway, which strikes off from Manly junction at Danbury. The Catholic church was wrecked, three houses were blown down and other minor damages inflicted. No lives were lost so far as known.

Large Purchase of Coal Lands.

PHILADELPHIA, April 22.—It is officially announced that the property of the Fairmount Coal and Iron Company, consisting of 4,900 acres of mineral rights at Fairmount, on the Low Grade division of the Alleghany Valley Railroad, has been purchased by a syndicate whose interests are identified with the Buffalo, New York and Philadelphia Railroad Company. It is also stated that the Buffalo, New York and Philadelphia Company will not build the Tionesta and Clarion Railroad nor its extension from Union to Erie, both of which were recently proposed, as satisfactory transportation arrangements will be made with the Alleghany Valley and Philadelphia and Erie companies. It is understood that the same syndicate will extend the line of railroad from Clermont to valuable coal lands in Elk and Jefferson counties, which have been placed at its disposal.

Strife between Miners.

UNIONTOWN, April 22.—Thomas Lyons and Moses Householder, two miners, who were digging a pit in the edge of Green county, had a dispute and assaulted each other with their picks. Lyons inflicted two severe wounds on Householder, one in the breast and one in the head. He is under the care of a physician and is in a critical condition.

Alternate Labor.

READING, April 23.—Forty blacksmiths and helpers were suspended at the Philadelphia and Reading railroad shops yesterday evening for one week, when they will return to work and forty others will be suspended. This action is taken by the company on account of the scarcity of work and material.

Fifteen Roughs in Custody.

SEAFORD, Del., April 24.—Mr. John R. Nicholson, town solicitor of Dover, and also Mr. H. Reedy, member of the common council, were sent here yesterday afternoon by the authorities of Dover to consult with John O'Brien, the circus proprietor, whose show exhibited here to-day, as to the prosecution of the rioters who attacked the circus in Dover on Saturday night. Fifteen of the rioters, mostly young men and citizens of Dover, were arrested yesterday afternoon. The superior court of this state is now in session in Dover. Chief Justice Comegys gave a strong charge to the jury at the opening of the court yesterday morning as to their duty in prosecuting the malefactors who have so greatly disgraced the town. Solicitor Nicholson was sent here by the attorney general of the state for information from Mr. O'Brien and his employes that will aid him in the prosecution of the rioters.

In the Matter of Dynamite.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—At the cabinet meeting to-day there was some informal conversation with regard to the evidence furnished by newspapers that persons in the United States are actually engaged in aiding and directing the operations of dynamite plotters in England. This conversation did not grow out of any official correspondence upon the subject, for no document of any kind relating to it was presented, but there is reason to believe that a hypothetical question was framed and discussed, and that the members of the cabinet generally represented their views as to what the policy of this government should be in various suggested contingencies which might arise out of a manifest disposition of certain Irish leaders to use this country as a base for attacks by means of dynamite and nitro-glycerine, upon the English government and English people.

A Robbery Frustrated.

UNIONTOWN, April 24.—John Huey and John Darby were brought from Dawson yesterday and lodged in jail, charged with robbery at Layton station. They were arrested on Saturday, and a hearing had before Justice McDonald, where it was learned that the two men had conceived the design of robbing Solomon Zizing's house, having learned that Mr. Zizings had lately collected some money. Their plan was to set the woods on fire and thus attract the men away from the house. Arriving at the house they found there a Miss Montgomery, Mr. Zizing's housekeeper. They threatened her life if she did not tell them where the money was. Seeing that they were armed with pistols and knives she was compelled to give them the information. They appropriated $20 and a pistol. In going through two bureaus about $1,400 was missed. Huey tried to prove an alibi, but Darby confessed.

A Heart-broken Tavern Keeper.

PORT CARBON, April 24.—This is the only town in Schuylkill in which there are no licensed drinking places, Judge Green having decided yesterday to grant none of the applications. Daniel Wintersteen, a prominent citizen, has remonstrated for several years past against the granting of licenses, but always without success. This spring he filed exceptions to each application, and proved that every applicant made a practice of selling liquor on Sunday. Judge Green, in sustaining the exceptions, said the only way to uphold the law was to refuse licenses to those who disobey it. Among the applicants was one man who has since died, and whose death his attorney attributed to this litigation. His widow is now applying for damages.

Suicide in a Hotel.

MILTON, April 22.—William B. Baink, a boatman of Liverpool, arrived here Friday night and stopped at the Broadway house. Yesterday morning he drank a glass of whisky at the bar, after putting into the glass a powder which he said was quinine. He then proceeded to the ballway, and there meeting his wife, a chambermaid of the house, began conversing with her. They were not on good terms, having been separated for some time. While he was talking he fell to the floor and died a short time afterward. In his pocket was found a sixty-grain bottle of strychnine, about thirty grains of its contents remaining.

O'Brien's Circus Mobbed.

WILMINGTON, Del., April 22.—A dispatch from Dover to the Morning News says: O'Brien's circus was attacked by a mob armed with breech-loading guns and revolvers after the performance last night and eight or ten men, including Charles Henderson, one of the proprietors, were shot, some of them seriously. Henderson, it is said, cannot recover. The sheriff, at the solicitation of the citizens, summoned a posse and restored order, and the circus was allowed to depart without further molestation. No arrests have been made.

Reading Railroad Statistics.

PHILADELPHIA, April 22.—The net earnings of the Philadelphia and Reading railroad and coal companies for the month of March were $702,521.80, an increase of $47,053.17 as compared with the corresponding month last year. The profit of both companies for the first three months this year was $2,841,243.73, an increase as compared with the corresponding period of last year of $162,782.70.

Champion Sullivan Seriously Ill.

BOSTON, April 25.—Sporting circles are greatly excited over the news that John L. Sullivan, the champion pugilist, had a hemorrhage at 1 o'clock yesterday morning. His friends became alarmed and sent for a priest. On his arrival the priest found Sullivan in a stupor and apparently insensible. Thinking him dying the priest administered the sacrament. The attack was undoubtedly caused by dissipation in which Sullivan has deeply indulged of late. He makes light of it and attributes it to a cold. He says he will be on hand for his contest with Mitchell on May 14. His friends fear a repetition of the hemorrhage and think the champion has seen his best days. He was on the street this morning, however.

A Wolf in Lamb's Clothing.

READING, April 25.—James Barton, a native of London, England, who has been acting agent for Mutual Reserve Fund Life Assessment association, of New York, one of the fraudulent concerns pointed out by the insurance commissioner of Pennsylvania, has suddenly disappeared, leaving a large number of creditors, involving a loss of several thousand dollars. Barton was also agent for J. J. Southwick & Co, Rochester, N. Y., oil refinery, and he has defrauded them out of a large sum of money. He officiated as a local preacher, and at various times addressed an audience, giving his experience in the Christian religion. A warrant has been issued for his arrest.

State Legislation.

HARRISBURG, April 25.—The house defeated this afternoon the bill to provide a suitable testimony to George S. Harrison for his services in endeavoring to bring to Pennsylvania the remains of William Penn. Among the bills finally passed was one granting $96 per year to surviving Mexican soldiers and to the widows of deceased soldiers of said war.

The senate had under consideration the act to repeal the act creating the public building commission of Philadelphia. The first section was defeated, as was also a subsequent effort to reconsider the action. This kills the bill for this session. Several bills passed second reading.

Experimenting with Electricity.

NEW YORK, April 13.—Professor Henry Morton, of Stevens' institute of technology, in a lecture this evening, showed by experiments that by a simple contrivance and at slight expense electricity could be used as a motive power, not merely to propel street cars but to run the most complicated kind of machinery. The energy stored in a box a cubic foot large could take a car full of passengers from one end of New York city to the other. He claimed that the contrivance might exceed in value the invention of the telephone, as the secret of applying electricity as a motive power has hitherto been sought in vain.

The Result of an Old Feud.

MERCER, Pa., April 25.—William Terrill, of this place, has been working for John Davis, a contractor on the West Penn and Shenango railroad, near Harrisville, Butler county. He went to the latter's house Tuesday night in an intoxicated condition. The men got into an altercation and Terrill drew a revolver and shot Davis, the ball entering the left breast and inflicting a wound which may result in death. Terrill claims that the shooting was accidental, but it seems that there had been ill-feeling between the two for some time and Davis maintains that the shot was wilfully given.

Children Experiment with Dynamite.

LEWISTOWN, Pa., April 23.—On Saturday about noon a small son of Henry Stine, of Stine's Mills, near Maitland, placed a dynamite cartridge, which he had found, upon the stove to see it go off. Getting tired waiting for the explosion he knocked the cartridge on the floor, when his sister, a lass of 15 summers, picked it up for the purpose of examination. She had no more than got it in her hand when the heated cartridge exploded, blowing off the ends of her two figures and thumb of her left hand. The injured girl was brought to town and Dr. Parcels rendered the necessary surgical attention.

An Absurd Rumor.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—The officers of the postoffice department say that there has been no communication received at that department urging the appointment of ex-President R. B. Hayes as postmaster at Fremont, Ohio. Postmaster Krebs, who was appointed by Hayes, was recently found to be between two and three thousand dollars short in his accounts, but he has made the amount good and still holds the position of postmaster at Fremont. It is probable that a new appointment will soon be made.

The Apaches Again.

ST. LOUIS, April 25.—A special from Albuquerque, N. M., says that information received there states that one of the chiefs of Juh's Apaches captured Professor A. F. Bandalier, of the American Archaeological institute; S. F. Balder, of Tucson, and a Mexican near the village of San Christobal, in the state of Sonora. The Apaches took the prisoners into the mountains and it is nearly certain that they have been murdered.

An Oil Well in Maryland.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 23.—Saturday while boring for an artesian well at the United States fish commission battery station, about four miles down the bay, a vein of gas was struck at the depth of 120 feet. When lighted it would burn until put out by the sand and pieces of coal which came out. Numbers went down on Saturday from this city in the government launch to see it.

A Man Blown into Atoms.

GREENSBURG, April 24.—An unknown man, from Baltimore, while standing near the brickyard of Keir Bros., not far from this place, was blown into atoms by the premature explosion of a large keg of giant powder used for blasting. What could be found of his remains were gathered together and interred. Another man was severely injured.

Influence of the Soil on Health.

The influence of the soil upon the health of those living upon it, is brought out very plainly during the prevalence of epidemic diseases. That malarial diseases (like intermittent fevers) originate from the soil, is already accepted; and recent investigations show pretty conclusively that the germs of cholera, abdominal typhus, yellow fever, and the plague are in some way connected with the soil, which is daily corroborated by letters from all parts of the country, stating the marvellous effect Peruna has on those diseases, and in their convalescent state. John E. Courtney, of Corry, Pa., says: "I am still getting better, thanks to your Peruna and Manalin." See page 24 in "Ills of Life."

McDaniel's Walk-over.

ATLANTA, Ga., April 24.—The election for governor to-day passed off quietly with a light vote, as there was no opposition to Henry D. McDaniel, the democratic nominee. He will probably be inaugurated on May 12. The legislature meets on the 10th to open the returns

CANDID TALK.—We have something to say, and want to say it plainly and frankly. It is this: We know it to be a fact that Hunt's Remedy, the great kidney and liver medicine, is the only real cure for diseases of the kidneys, bladder, liver and urinary organs. This is the plain, unvarnished truth. We do not believe as much can be said for any other medicine. You who suffer and doubt, have faith enough to try Hunt's Remedy. It will cure you. It cures everybody.

"Is wealth a monopoly?" asks the Boston Commercial Bulletin. That depends upon who has it. If it is you—yes; if it is we—no.

WARNER'S SAFE KIDNEY AND LIVER CURE

"Dwo vos schoost enough, budt dree was too blenty," remarked Hans, when his girl asked him to take her mother along with him to the dance.

Thomas Jones, Mt. Carmel, Pa., says: "I used Brown's Iron Bitters effectually for pain in the side, dizziness and indigestion."

If you do not want dyspepsia get your food down fine.

NEWS AND REFLECTIONS.

A Correspondent Writes of the Organization of "S. of V." in Milesburg and of the Death of the Late Matthew Riddle.

MILESBURG, April 23, 1883.

EDITOR REPUBLICAN: Dear Sir—A Camp of the Sons of Veterans with fifteen charter members was mustered in Milesburg Friday night, April 20, 1883, by Walter Bayard, Captain of Camp No. 12, Bellefonte, assisted by Amos Mullen, P. C., and E. A. Smith, of No. 95, G. A. R., and quite a number of Camp No. 12, S. of V. Mullen and Smith of 95 are part of the advisory committee, from No. 95, G. A. R. Austin Curtin, Commander, No. 261, J. Miles Green, Simon Bathurst, A. S. Smith, Sam'l B. Wyland and James McMullen are the advisory committee from No. 261.

The mustering of the Milesburg camp was the first attempt of anything of the kind by Captain Bayard, who, with his helpers, got through with all the proceedings in a very creditable manner. The new camp is No. 17 of the Penn'a Div., Sons of Veterans, of which Col. Louis M. Wagner is the commander. The name of the camp is Serg't Samuel McKinley of Co. H, 148th Reg., P. V., who was shot through the head (and died instantly) while gallantly carrying the colors of the regiment in that "terrible whirlpool of death" the "wheat field" of Gettysburg, July 2, 1863. He was a native of Milesburg.

After the muster the following officers were elected and installed: William Wyland, Captain; George B. McFulton, 1st Lieut; Frank Sharp, 2d Lieut.; John McDivitt, Chaplain; A. J. Hall, Orderly Serg't; A. Lincoln Miller, Color Serg't; John McKinley (son of the soldier whose name the camp bears), Quarter Master Serg't; Wm. H. Shultz, (the oldest, so far as known, Son of Veteran yet mustered in the State. He and his father both served in the 148th, he, Shultz, passing through all the 148th. He is also a member of G. A. R.) Sergeant of the Guard.

The camp bids fair to be a good one. It can easily raise 75 members and in time should run up to one hundred. There is plenty of material to work on. The Sons are growing and some are becoming old enough every year to join the "Camps," while the men eligible to join the G. A. R. are fast passing away. Only on Sunday, April 22, the remains of a brave, true hearted soldier were followed to the grave from this vicinity. Matthew Riddle moved late in the fall from Howard, to Marsh Creek, Boggs township, north of Milesburg. Not being very well when he came there and working hard to get his new house ready for winter, he grew worse until at last he passed away. His brother, the distinguished preacher of M. E. church, Rev. Finley B. Riddle, was with him to soothe his last hours. His remaining brother, Fletcher, of Tyrone, and Nelson, of Howard, were also very attentive to him. Matthew was the youngest of the family. Their father was William Riddle who lived and died about two miles west of Howard, and on the opposite side of the B. E. creek.

Matthew Riddle in September, 1861, enlisted with Austin Curtin in what was afterward known as Co. D, 45th Regt. P. V., and after serving in all and everything the regiment did until December 17th, 1862, was discharged on surgeon's certificate. The hard marches (especially one taken to Lower Maryland in November, 1861, from which he and many others of the regiment never fully recovered) and the exposure was too much for a constitution not any too strong from the beginning. He never was a well man after leaving the service and the end was Saturday, April 21.

Matthew Riddle was a most excellent soldier, never flinching when called upon for duty. He was a kind husband and father, a most excellent and estimable citizen. His end was peace and his reward sure.

On Sunday, April 22, the Post of the Grand Army No. 261 and one member of 95, in full uniform and accompanied by some of the Camp of the "Sons," marched to the Baptist church, Milesburg, to hear a sermon from Rev. Mr. Edwards, pastor of that church. He preached a very fine sermon in a most excellent manner from "Romans 12-21." The day being exceedingly stormy there were not many present. All who were there were well pleased with all the exercises, and will be happy to enjoy the privilege at some future time when the full Post can turn out. The Post has now heard sermons in Milesburg from Rev. Mr. Woodcock, Methodist; Rev. Mr. Wright, Presbyterian; Rev. Mr. Edwards, Baptist, and have one more minister yet to hear. Rev Mr. Morris, of the Evangelical church, will be asked to preach on Sunday previous to Memorial Day, May 30. Memorial day will be well observed here and at Curtin's cemeteries.

"Camp No. 17" is the third camp in Centre. Philipsburg, first in nearly every thing, had the first one, No. —. Bellefonte followed with No. 12, and now Milesburg No. 17. Hope they will all prosper and become very useful, as such is their object. "261."

ALMOST A CENTURY.

How the Ninety-fourth Birthday of Mrs. Elizabeth Rumberger was Celebrated.

EDITOR REPUBLICAN: Please grant me a little space in the columns of your valuable paper to report one of the most delightful and pleasing events that has ever occurred within the memory of the writer. It was the occasion of a surprise party given in honor of the ninety-fourth birthday of the venerable and aged lady whose revered name stands at the head of this article, by her surviving progeny and numerous descendants; which happy event occurred on last Wednesday, the 18th, at the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. Joseph Grazier, near Gatesburg, in Ferguson township.

The day was an auspicious one for the occasion. The sun shined brightly and all nature seemed to enjoy that gayety to which she had been a stranger during the long winter months that have just past into history. As guest after guest arrived they rendered the air vocal with their happy greetings.

Fifty-three of her descendants were present, the representatives of each family having provided themselves with baskets full of good things wherewith to nourish the inner man. An improvised table was erected in the yard under the spreading but yet leafless branches of a grove of cherry trees, and was covered with the spotless white table linen which, though the fare be ever so humble, will nevertheless give zest to the person's appetite; after which basket after basket was robbed of its contents and decorously and tastefully arranged on the table until —well, of course this article would not be complete unless we said the table groaned under the weight of good things. At the proper time, all present arranged themselves around the festal board and to say that all did justice to themselves in stowing away the tempting viands is "putting it mild." If the table groaned beforehand, some of the party groaned afterward. The day was spent in all manner of amusements by the younger portion, while the older ones enjoyed themselves in looking on and engaging in cheerful conversation. Before the party dispersed to their respective homes they were all arranged in a group with "Gros-mommy"—as she is familiarly called by all who know her—in the centre, and a photograph taken by Mr. J. H. Holtsinger, of Tyrone, who had been previously engaged for the purpose. It was truly a memorable day, and one destined to ever remain a green spot in the memory of all present. Now please allow me to give a condensed of the life of this beloved old lady.

Elizabeth Rumberger, whose maiden name was Funk, was born in Maryland, April 18th, 1789—ten days previous to the inauguration of George Washington as President of the United States the first term—and was married at the early age of 17, to Jacob Rumberger, with whom she lived happily up to the time of his death, which occurred about 30 years ago. She is the mother of 15 children, seven of whom are living. She has 60 grandchildren, 131 great-grandchildren and 11 great-great-grandchildren. She has two sisters and one brother living whose ages are, respectively, 83, 86 and 88 years. About the year 1814 she, with her husband and small family, removed to the present homestead on which she has lived ever since, a period of 69 years. This was then considered the "Far West," and she may truly be ranked among the pioneers of Centre county. As the mated birds aid each other in building their nests so she aided her husband in building an humble log hut in the midst of an almost unbroken forest, covering it with the uncouth "clapboard" made by their own hands, in which to shelter themselves from the outside elements. Here they commenced clearing out the farm, from the fruits of which they enjoyed so many years of happiness. Her powers of endurance were certainly remarkable. She could wield an axe or grubbing hoe equal to any of the sterner sex; and it was no unusual thing for her to go into the clearing and "trim up" a number of trees which her husband had cut down while she had gone to prepare their frugal meal, thus improving the time while he took his invariable afternoon nap. And in after years when they had succeeded in clearing out quite a farm she would assist in plowing and gathering in the crops with the same indomitable and seemingly tireless perseverance that marked her career all through life. I might mention many incidents in her life which were related by her son, the father of the writer; but fearing I am intruding on your kindness I will defer from doing so at present. Suffice to say, in conclusion, that she has been a consistent member of the Lutheran church for probably three-quarters of a century. She is still in good health though her memory and hearing are somewhat impaired, yet she realized and enjoyed with great zest the surprise party given in her honor that day.

If any other of your many readers have parents or grandparents, let them go and do likewise. It is like strewing their pathway to the tomb with roses and evergreens.

May the frail barque on which she is launched, glide calmly and peacefully down the stream of life, and finally cast anchor in the haven of eternal rest, where she may join her husband and children who have gone before, in singing the songs of the redeemed, and forever bask in the sunshine of eternal bliss. BUILDING ASSOCIATIONS.

An Organization which will Benefit all Classes—What Has Been done in Bellefonte.

We informed our readers last week that a meeting preliminary to the organization of a Building and Loan Association was held on Saturday night, the 21st of April. As many of our readers are also aware, these associations are not entirely new in this borough and a misunderstanding in regard to them exists in the minds of some. The one which is now just winding up its business affairs was of inestimable benefit to many of our citizens who were enabled to borrow or loan money to build homes for themselves or to embark in business enterprises and are now reaping the benefit of it. While it is true that there were some instances in which these loans brought disaster to the purchaser, they were very few and in a majority of such cases the borrower was so hopelessly involved as to make further loans rash in the extreme. The former association issued 1492 shares of stock and made 548 loans. Of these loans there were less than a hundred which the Association had to resort to law to collect. We might give a full list of those who were borrowers either with the object of building homes or engaging in business, but it would be an unnecessary waste of space to do so. We shall, however, enumerate a few, viz: Mr. Monroe Armor, General William Blair, J. R. & C. T. Alexander, Gen. J. A. Beaver, Messrs. D. M. Butts, G. L. Potter, M. W. Cowdrick, W. P. Duncan, Dr. E. S. Dorworth, Messrs. F. P. Green, J. P. Harris, Dr. T. R. Hayes, Adam Hoy, Esq., Messrs. J. H. Clinger, H. D. Landis, W. L. Malin, Daniel Rhoads, James L. Sommerville, etc. Any one of these individuals or firms will testify to the real benefit the Association was to them.

As an investment the stock of these Associations are valuable even if the investor does not intend to become a borrower. Those who invested in the stock of the former Association, remaining in it all the time, realized $1000 for every $545 so invested. The Presbyterian Sunday-school was one of this latter class and now has a snug sum of money with which to aid in furnishing the forthcoming edifice to be erected for its use.

We have no doubt that the organization which started into life on Saturday night will be equally useful to our citizens. It can be made so. There are men who, if they are favored with a continuance of present health and prosperity, will be able through its instrumentality and perhaps in no other way to erect homes for themselves.

—The Lutherans of the Central Pennsylvania Synod will hold a Sunday school convention in Lock Haven next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, May 1, 2 and 3. Among the familiar names on the programme we notice Rev. W. E. Fischer, of Centre Hall, who will deliver an address on "The Year's Review." Hon. Fred Kurtz, of the same place, will open a discussion concerning "the relation of Sunday school training to national and social life," and Rev. S. E. Furst will speak of the "Word of God and how to use it."

—The three men concerned in the burglary of the store at Howard confessed guilty and were sentenced—two of them—John Chambers and William Stine, alias William Swayne—to seven years in the penitentiary and the third—Harry Shoemaker—to four years.

—Are we scooped?—L. H. Journal. Well, we hope not, Al.; if you are, though, you may as well brace up and make the most of it. But you really ought to wait till the high tariff is removed from the spring bonnet.

A Challenge from Clearfield County.

The wing shots of this borough and county now have something to "put in their pipes and smoke." They have been challenged and that, too, by a man who has an excellent reputation as a marksman and he has several others just like him to take a hand in the little game. The challenge is addressed to Theodore Deschner of this place and is as follows:

MORRISDALE MINES, April 19, 1883.

MR. DESCHNER—Dear Sir: We will shoot you a match 4-handed for $100 a side. Match to be shot May 22, 1883, at 10 birds apiece, 18 yards rise. * * * This is a challenge from Clearfield county. If you accept write immediately. S. E. ROACH.

Now it is very plain that the champion shots of old Centre will be compelled either to shoot or to surrender the belt. Mr. Deschner is marshalling his forces from near and far and will probably answer Mr. Roach affirmatively very soon.

—Mr. Simler Cowher, who was brought to Bellefonte from Port Matilda on Monday, the 23d ult., was taken to the asylum for the insane last Friday morning. Mr. C. is a man of perhaps fifty years of age and in rather feeble health. The sincerest sympathy of the many friends of the unfortunate gentleman will follow him to his abode at the asylum, as he was thoroughly respected by all who knew him. He has quite a large family.

—Mr. J. Stetler, proprietor of the Hasson House, Port Matilda, this county, spent a few moments in the REPUBLICAN sanctum on Tuesday morning of last week. We believe he has but recently taken possession of the house to which he will henceforth devote his time and attention, but as he is an experienced hotelist and a very pleasant gentleman the hotel bids fair to prosper under his regime.

—Ex-Governor A. G. Curtin is again seeking relaxation from labor at his home in this place. But for the fact that we dislike to see a good man defeated, we might advise the Democratic press to turn their attention from the merits of a feeble Presidential candidate like the sage of Gramercy Park or the heavy-weight hero of Gettysburg to the Bellefonte mansion of Pennsylvania's War Governor.

—The big sign, "Look out for the locomotive," which extended across High street near the railroad, is now lying on the ground. Whether the wind blew it down or it was purposely taken from its conspicuous and serviceable position we cannot state.

Walnut Leaf Hair Restorer.

It is entirely different from all others. It is as clear as water and, as its name indicates, is a perfect Vegetable Hair Restorer. It will immediately free the head from all dandruff, restore gray hair to its natural color, and produce a new growth where it has fallen off. It does not in any manner affect the health, which sulphur, sugar of lead, and nitrate of silver preparations have done. It will change light or faded hair in a few days to a beautiful glossy brown. Ask your druggists for it. Each bottle is warranted. Smith, Kline & Co., Wholesale Agents, Philadelphia, and Hall & Ruckel, New York. 14 24 1y

—Mr. H. K. Hicks, the hardware man, has been improving his residence on Linn street by the application of fresh paint. The colors are "squeezed lemon" with olive green trimmings and red roof, and show off to good advantage.

—Telephones are evidently in favor among druggists. We hear that Dr. Kirk has recently invested in one.

has just received another lot of small Stem Winding Watches in Silver and Nickel, just the thing to make a boy happy, as it's the height of any boy's ambition to carry a Watch. These are reliable and serviceable, and are not expensive.

Also some more of those little bits of Watches which are so fashionable among the girls. These are much worn in other places and are considered just the thing.

A large line of Children's sets of Knife, Fork and Spoon with and without cases in Extra and Triple Plate. They are decidedly elegant goods; much more so than at any other season. A very few dozen of the Genuine Rogers' Triple-Plated Knives. They are as cheap as the imitation and worth twice the price of any other knife offered

A Gold Headed Cane would likely be just the thing you are looking for; they are useful, ornamental and always appreciated.

Gold Thimbles from the lowest in price to the most elegant. They are always just the thing and last a lifetime, and you can make no mistake

See the Castors and Cake Baskets.

I would like to show you my leading Tea Set—cheap and just the thing for actual use, Copper Bottom, and can be set on the stove and used the same as Britannia or tinware, and they come very little higher than a common unplated set.

Some people thought it foolish to bring a stock of Fine Diamonds to Bellefonte, but they will find considerably more Diamonds worn here after the holidays than before.

Your attention is particularly called to Japanese wares. They are genuine goods made in Japan and not in Jersey. They must be closed out this week as I have no room to keep them over. They are all below the cost of importation and some of them are given away for nothing.

—Farewell, tearful April.

—Beware of pension swindlers.

—Don't play ball on the street.

—Thunder and lightning last Friday evening.

—An Italian always says "good-bye" when he leaves you.

—The legal and judicial fraternity are busily engaged in the courting business again this week.

—Jacob Z. Long has been appointed postmaster at Howard, Pa., vice Thomas Mehaffey, resigned.

—About one hundred Italians came up on the 5:59 a. m. train on Saturday to work on the Buffalo Run Railroad.

—Gen. James A. Beaver will probably deliver the Decoration Day oration at Wellsboro, Tioga county.

—The Jewish fast of the Passover, which commenced on Friday evening of last week, will end this evening.

—A beautiful and well defined rainbow was outlined against a bank of dark clouds in the eastern sky last Friday evening.

—The next meeting of the Building and Loan Association will be held in the hall of the Logan Hose Company on Friday evening.

—Mrs. McIverson, a respected resident of Half Moon, died on Thursday last and was brought to this place for interment on Saturday.

—A gang of Italians got into a heated discussion Monday morning in the Diamond about the merits of Bellefonte, but no knives drawn.

—The presiding elder of this M. E. district preached in the Methodist church Sunday night, Rev. Penepacker officiating in the church at Pleasant Gap.

—Sunday's fine weather called out the promenaders in full force. The dude was out, too, giving the down on his upper lip the benefit of the sun.

—Michael Rider, son of Isaiah Rider, of Penn township, died on Saturday, April 21, from injuries received in a run-away on the previous Thursday, April 19.

—So far as we have been able to ascertain the valuable car works property remains unsold and is still open to the purchaser who will exhibit his $40,000—not so large a sum if you only have it.

—Several new classes have been formed among the advanced students in the public schools to enter upon a course of supplementary reading, a few of the standard authors being adopted for that purpose.

—Colonel B. K. Jamison, the prominent Philadelphia banker, just returned from Snow Shoe to Philadelphia. He has some important business interests in Snow Shoe which required his personal attention.

—Mr. John Blanchard, son of E. M Blanchard, says the Democrat, expects soon to start on a continental tour over Europe. He has just graduated at Haverford College, and the change of scene will not only interest but benefit our young friend.

—People should not attempt to climb on the cars when they are in motion. A man attempting to do so near the depot Friday evening was thrown at the side of the track his hat going in the mill race. He narrowly escaped being run over.

—If the work which Mr. Charles Henderson is seeking to accomplish at the steel works in this place is brought to a successful culmination it will revolutionize the manufacture of steel, as he uses only refuse ore in his process. The machinery used in making these tests is exceedingly costly. Among the ponderous machinery now in the building are two huge engines, an immense retort which is kept filled with coal gas and many others, the use of which is not apparent to an unpracticed eye.

—The four prisoners sentenced to confinement for terms ranging from one to seven years in the Western Penitentiary were taken away on Friday morning. It is sad to know that such punishment must be inflicted upon men most of whom are in the first flush of young manhood. The sentences were comparatively lenient and certainly they were just. When their terms have expired there will still be opportunity for them to become useful members of society.

The grand jury returned true bill in four indictments against John Chambers, Harry Shoemaker and William Stine, alias Wm. Swayne; two for larceny and two for breaking and entering in the night time with intent to commit a felony.

The defendants, upon being brought into court Tuesday morning, plead guilty to the four indictments. Col. D. H. Hastings made a statement of the case to the court on the part of the Commonwealth, and said that these parties had broken into the store of Bernard Lauth and also the store of Lucas Bros., at Howard, and carried away goods amounting to over sixty dollars; that they were followed by Mr. Lucas and others and were captured in Unionville on the following Sunday morning; also that the Sheriff had evidence in his possession to prove that these defendants belonged to an organized band of burglars in Philadelphia, and that their comarauders had come here to assist them in making their escape, and asked the court to pass such a sentence on them that would rid the county of these villans in the future. One of the prisoners, Wm. Swayne, made a statement, in which he said it was a mistake about breaking into the store of Bernard Lauth, as the door was standing open when they entered it. He also denied that they belong to an organized band of burglars, but that this was their first offense; that notwithstanding all that had been said, he trusted the court would believe this. The court, in sentencing Harry Shoemaker, said that the Sheriff had represented to him that he had behaved himself better and gave him less trouble than either of the other two, and although he could sentence him for 14 years, he would only sentence him on one indictment and would suspend sentence on the other two for the present. The court then sentenced him to pay one dollar fine, costs of prosecution and to separate and solitary confinement at hard labor in the Western Penitentiary at Allegheny City for the period of four years. The other two were sentenced on two indictments and were sent for seven years each.

In the case of Commonwealth against Harry Jacobs, charged with larceny, true bill returned. Defendant plead guilty and was sentenced to one year in the Western Penitentiary.

In the Common Pleas the plaintiff in the case of Edward Gardner against Wm. W. Cook was non-suited.

The grand jury returned true bills in cases of Commonwealth vs. Ira E Shaffer, Reuben Grim and Louis Grim for conspiracy to cheat and defraud creditors.

Same vs. James Shaw, forgery. Defendant plead guilty and sentenced six months to county jail.

In the Common Pleas the case of C. Sharrar against E. J. Pruner was tried. This case was a suit brought originally before a justice of the peace and is before the Court in appeal.

Commonwealth vs. John G. Uzzle, assault and battery. Bill ignored and prosecutor, Abram Baum, to pay the costs.

Same vs. Abram Baum, assault and battery. Bill ignored and prosecutor, John G. Uzzle, to pay the costs.

Same vs. Harry Harding, larceny. Bill ignored.

Same vs. John Delige, assault and battery. Bill ignored and prosecutrix, Margaret L. Witten, to pay the costs.

Same vs. Thomas Myers, pointing fire arms. Bill ignored and prosecutor, Frank Miller, to pay costs.

Same vs. Frank Miller, et al., assault and threats. Bill ignored and Thomas Myers, prosecutor, to pay costs.

Same vs. James I. DeLong, assault and battery. Bill ignored and prosecutor, David F. Confer, to pay costs.

Same vs. Albert Bower, charged with uncoupling the passenger train at Julian. True bill. Continued to next term.

The case of commonwealth against Dr. P. W. Swope for various offences, including an attempt to procure an abortion, was not brought up on account of the illness of the prosecutrix and was continued to next term, by permission of court.

The surety of the peace case against Wesley Jones seems to have grown out of a love affair in which the prox-ecutrix, Mary Worrall, figured as one of the characters. Mary, after having received the attention of Wesley for some time, concluded to transfer her affections, or at least gave Wesley the g. b., whereupon he sought revenge, and wrote her if she did not come to Snow Shoe and marry him, they would both be corpses at their first subsequent meeting. The court sentenced Wesley Jones to pay costs and give bail for his good behavior towards all people and especially toward Mary Worrall, in sum of $500. In default of bail he was remanded to the county jail.

The verdict in the case of C. Shirrar against E. J. Pruner, was in favor of plaintiff in the sum of $87.50.

The jurors were all discharged on Thursday except the twelve empanneled in the case of W. H. Corman, assignee of John W. Stoll against Elias West and John W. Stoll, which was the last case for trial last week.

—Our medical friend, Dr. H. K. Hoy, performed a very delicate surgical operation last week in removing a dangerous tumor from the left lower eye-lid of Mr. Harvey Yearick, who resides near Jacksonville. The position of the tumor, its nature and other attendant circumstances rendered the operation one which required the most consummate skill in the surgeon and which only those practitioners in possession of the almost boundless resources which Dr. Hoy has at his command could safely undertake. To prevent a scar marring Mr. Yearick's face in this conspicuous place the Doctor removed the tumor from the inner surface, which of course required even more skill than to have removed it from the outside. The afflicted gentleman, Mr. Yearick, bore the operation with remarkable fortitude and both physician and patient are highly gratified with the result.

—D. H. Hastings, Esq., will be Decoration Day orator at Milesburg. His remarks will doubtless be replete with beautiful sentiment and eloquent allusions to the memory of the "soldier dead."

A Chime of Joy from Wedding Bells.

The elements smiled benignly Thursday evening upon one of the most supremely happy and pleasant events which has occurred in Bellefonte for a long period. It was the ceremony that united in holy marriage ties two hearts which long had beat as one. Two minds with but a single thought prompted by Cupid's inspiration bade their relatives and particular friends assemble at the residence of Miss Maggie Pruner, on Spring street at 7 o'clock last evening, and there with words spoken by Rev. George Penepacker, the eloquent pastor of the M. E. church, Mr. Curt. Moyer and Miss Clara Pruner, a niece of Miss Maggie Pruner, were wedded and a true love was consummated. Miss Nellie Boal supported the fair bride as bridesmaid and Mr. Whit. Moyer, brother of the groom, officiated as groomsman. The ceremony took place in the parlor, at the western end of which was placed a very beautiful collection of choice potted plants. Their green leaves and bright blossoms adorned the apartment while a refreshing fragrance exhaled from them. The scene presented when the happy party gathered for the solemn ceremony was attractive in the extreme and at its conclusion was followed by earnest congratulations from all present. A rich and sumptious collation succeeded and was discussed as long as fast flying time would permit.

A rare and costly collection of gifts was displayed in an adjoining room. They included an elegant gold watch and chain and numerous specimens of gold and silverware, beautiful pieces of antique china and glass ware, ornaments, bric-a-brac and articles of virtu of all descriptions. We are specially requested not to mention the names of the donors.

The 9 o'clock train conveyed Mr. and Mrs. Moyer away to Boston and Niagara Falls to spend two weeks enjoying the pleasures of a wedding tour.

The bride, Miss Clara Pruner, is a beautiful and accomplished young lady. She is a niece of Mr. E. J. Pruner, one of the wealthiest and most prominent citizens of Tyrone. She is also a niece of Miss Maggie Pruner—at whose residence the ceremoney occurred—and also of Mrs. John Hoffer and Mrs. Jacob Shrom of this place. The groom, Mr. Curt. Moyer, is a grandson of the venerable Dr. Wilson of this place, and a nephew of ex-Gov. A. G. Curtin. He is a very estimable young man and is now in the employ of Mr. W. J. Jackson, the owner of extensive coal mines at Powelton, Clearfield county, Mr M., we believe, being manager of the stores conducted by Mr. Jackson. When Mr. and Mrs. Moyer return from their wedding tour they will reside at Powelton.

The fact that the fair bride is thus permanently removed from her circle of admiring Bellefonte friends is the only regretful circumstance in the otherwise very happy event. We extend to Mr. and Mrs. Moyer our most earnest wishes for their happiness.

A SUGGESTION.

A More Direct and Better Route for the Punxsutawney and Milton Railroad.

A few days ago we published the route upon which the engineers of the Punxsutawney and Milton Railroad are now engaged. In the article in question we stated the route to be as follows: Across "the Moshannon south of the Big Tunnel. Then striking the head of the south fork of Beech Creek it extends across the head of Marsh Creek and thence down the south fork of the latter creek, by way of Mill Hall and Washington Furnace, through Nittany and Sugar Valleys to Milton."

Engineers, capitalists and all who are intimately acquainted with the geography of Centre county express surprise that the projectors of the Punxsutawney and Milton Railroad should take the route outlined above when others so much more accessible and feasible could be taken. There are routes which would be much shorter and open up to them a greater wealth of country—indeed, what might be termed the garden spot of the world. In the fulfillment of our duty as a public journal in aiding to the extent of our power the enterprises which have for their object the development of material resources and wealth we shall suggest what seems to us as excellent route for this proposed line to take. As we hear that the construction of this road is to be pushed forward rapidly we invite those who are connected in its management to take into immediate consideration the route which we shall indicate, and shall charge them nothing if they eventually adopt it. It is as follows: Crossing the Snow Shoe railroad near Rhoad's Station, thence proceed down the ridge south of Marsh Creek, opposite the head of Antis' Run. Thence passing Curtin's Furnace, cross the Bald Eagle Valley Railroad on the grade; then passing through Curtin's, or Weaver's Gap cross Nittany Valley, proceeding down Little Fishing Creek, and on by way of Nittany Hall to Washington Furnace.

This, we are confident, would be a better grade in all respects. It would be from twelve to fifteen miles shorter than the one they are now locating and would traverse a country of wonderful wealth already partially developed—just enough, in fact, to indicate what a railroad would accomplish for it. That it would be much superior to the Mill Hall route is evident to all who understand even a tithe of the undeveloped ore wealth of Nittany Valley.

In Memoriam.

Death has again crossed the threshhold of Odd Fellowship, and the golden chain which binds her sons together as a fraternal band has again been broken.

In the strength of manhood, cheered by the confidence and friendship of those who knew and valued his worth, and blessed with all the endearing ties of home and kindred, our friend and brother has been cut down in his usefulness. No more will the gavel summon him here on earth, no more will his presence cheer and gladden the home, or the fraternal circle of Odd Fellowship. His work is done, and he has been called to pass that bourne whence no traveler returns.

Let us who survive him lay to heart this solemn admonition, and in the midst of life prepare for death.

WHEREAS, In the Providence of God, Brother Matthew M. Riddle, a member of Lick Run Lodge No. 311, I. O. O. F., departed this life April 19, A. D. 1883.

Resolved, That while we mourn his loss we will cherish his memory, and strive to imitate his patient industry, the inflexible integrity and quiet and unobtrusive deportment which so marked his character and life.

Resolved, That we tender to the stricken family our unfeigned sympathy in their bereavement and commend them to the care and protection of Him who has promised to be the Judge of the widow and the Father of the fatherless.

Resolved, That a page of our records be suitably inscribed to his memory, and that for thirty days the usual badge of mourning be worn.

Resolved, That a copy of the foregoing be forwarded to the family, and that additional copies be furnished the county papers for publication.

A Drunken Witness.

"Claire," the exceptionally excellent correspondent of the Philipsburg Journal, referring to the number of licenses granted by the learned court that graced the bench in this place last week, says that there were "eight or ten from Bellefonte, about the same number from Philipsburg and the other places in the county were in very nearly the same proportion. There was no opposition in any except four of the cases and but two of these were rejected, one from Ferguson and the other from Patton township, though it was a notorious fact that many of the witnesses who were required to swear to the "good moral character" of those asking for license were drunk. Indeed, in one case the applicant had to awaken his witness from the drunken stupor into which he had fallen in the Court room and help him outside, shake and sober him up before he could give his testimony as to the 'good moral character of the applicant.'" So much for the model court! In some of the courts of this State, this Spring, the judges have had the moral strength to refuse all applicants; in Centre county they seem to be welcomed with open arms.

A Woman's Missionary Society.

In the press of other local affairs we inadvertently omitted to mention that a Woman's Missionary Society is among the recent additions to the working force of the Evangelical Lutheran church of this place. The fact that it held a regular session Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. T. Gerberich revives it again to our memory. The regular meetings are held on the last Saturday afternoon of every month. It is at present officered as follows: President, Mrs. Fair; vice president, Mrs. Rhone; treasurer, Miss Ella Gerberich; secretary, Miss Ella Rhone. It is fast becoming one of the most effective instrumentalities of the church's work.

—On Thursday, April 19, while a daughter of Mr. G. W. Harter, residing in the eastern end of the county, was engaged in harrowing, she fell from the horse on which she was riding, alighting on the harrow. In turning, one of the horses also fell on her. One of the girl's arms was broken in two places and other injuries inflicted. She will probably recover.

Some of those who heard him were well pleased; others were disappointed. As we did not attend we can't express an opinion; but as the object sought to be accomplished was secured—a few dollars added to the library fund of the Y. M. C. A.—we are glad he came.

—If the Altoona Tribune and a certain newspaper called the Times published in the same city would desist from occupying so much space with severe and unkind reflections upon one another it would be more satisfactory to the public. The Tribune, at least, should be too high-toned to indulge in such literature, as everybody knows it occupies an undisputed position at the head of Altoona journalism and is the purest and best strictly newspaper in the State.
